WHY CONTACT THE PRIVATE GUARDIAN SUPPORT UNIT?

If you have been appointed as a guardian to make decisions on behalf of a family member or friend, there are things you need to be aware of which will help you in this role.

The role of guardian is different to that of carer, friend or relative. It is a legally appointed position and there are a range of legal duties involved as well as responsibilities to the person for whom you are guardian. As a guardian you can assist the person to make decisions in lifestyle areas that will be in his or her best interest. You may assist the person get the services and care they need and that may protect them from abuse, neglect or exploitation.

Sometimes guardians find this takes a lot of time, effort and thought to ensure that the best possible decision is made on behalf of the person. Many guardians have family members or friends who can support them in their role as guardian. The Private Guardian Support Unit is also there to provide support and information using the knowledge and experience of the NSW Public Guardian.

WHAT TYPE OF INFORMATION AND SUPPORT CAN WE PROVIDE?

The Private Guardian Support Unit is a free and confidential service available to guardians. We do not supervise the actions or decisions of guardians.

We provide information on:

- The rights and responsibilities a guardian has to the person under guardianship
- the NSW Guardianship Act (1987)
- best practice in decision making
- resources and services for people with disabilities

The Unit can also provide practical support for guardians who may be making decisions in situations of conflict or dispute, where advocacy is needed or where decision-making may be helped by knowledge of a range of services and options available to people with disabilities.
